Nanotechnology Teacher Workshop
For teachers of grades 6 and up!

Tuesday, April 28, 2015
8:00 a.m. – 4:00 p.m.

Question: What do nanotechnology & the emerald ash borer have in common? The answers include biology, chemistry, physics, math, engineering & more!

- Network with University faculty and graduate researchers on the cutting edge of nano-scale research
- Tour the state-of-the-art scientific facilities at Penn State’s Millennium Science Complex
- Work with education specialists on learning activities to incorporate into your existing curricula
- Learn about career opportunities that are available to your students
- Discover ways in which nanotechnology impacts our society
- Earn 8 Act 48 credit hours (available for a $10 fee)

Free registration – lunch is included

Workshop Location: N201/N202 Millennium Science Complex, University Park, PA

Register online now! Space is limited!

https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/2015NanoTeacherWkshp

This project is based on work supported by the NSF under Award Nos. 05322536 and 0940143. NanoDays™ is trademarked by North Carolina State University and used by the NISE Network with permission. Any opinions, findings, and conclusions or recommendations expressed in this work are those of the authors and do not necessarily reflect the views of the National Science Foundation.

Penn State is committed to affirmative action, equal opportunity, and the diversity of its workforce. This publication is available in alternative media on request. Penn State encourages qualified persons with disabilities to participate in its programs and activities. If you anticipate needing any type of accommodation or have questions about the physical access provided, please contact Kristin Dreyer at 814-863-1665 or kad4@psu.edu in advance of your participation. U.Ed. SCI 15-124.